

The Terror of the Halloween Pumpkins

Oh no! Look, the evil pumpkins are heading for the brick wall.

“What if they get through the wall?”
“How are we going to stop the pumpkins?”

AHHHHH!!
Oh no, here they come!

A square panel with a white background. It contains three orange jack-o'-lanterns with black triangular eyes and jagged mouths. Each pumpkin has a green stem with a single candle balanced on top. The pumpkins are arranged in a cluster, appearing to be moving towards the viewer.

“What should we do?”
“Council Meeting STAT!”

A square panel with a white background. It contains a group of ten stylized human figures in various shades of brown and tan. They are arranged in a loose group, some standing and some slightly hunched over, as if in a meeting.

“How do we stop the evil pumpkins?”
“They need candles in them bring out their halloween spirit!”

A square panel with a white background. It features a grey trapezoid in the center. Surrounding the trapezoid are several brown circles of different sizes, representing candles. Some are solid brown, while others are outlined.

Hooray!! We saved the pumpkins just in time for HALLOWEEN!!

The End!
